Gumdrop's Magical Meditation Spheres

Moshi Mindfulness in the Classroom series is a focused sequence of CASEL-aligned lesson plans. Built around the magical Moshi world, the lessons use audio content and characters to bring social-emotional learning to life across topics like self-regulation, awareness, and making friends. Take-home sheets are included with each lesson so that kids and families can practice mindfulness in and out of the classroom.

Gumdrop, the Bendy Vending's transparent head is full of items to help you relax. While his head looks a lot like a gumball vending machine, it contains magical meditation spheres to help let go of negative thoughts and emotions.

Before You Listen

Find a comfortable spot where you can sit cross-legged on the floor. Close your eyes and begin to relax.

After You Listen

During the meditation, you pictured two magical meditation spheres.

- What did they look like?

Today, we are going to decorate our own meditation spheres. You can either use the image from your meditation or create something totally new.

You can paint or color your meditation sphere however you want in order to help you focus during a meditation.

Teachers, provide students with small wooden balls to paint or use markers to color.

The word "moshi" is written in a white, rounded, lowercase sans-serif font. The letters are thick and have a friendly, approachable feel. The 'm' and 'n' have a slight curve to them. The background is a solid blue color with several large, overlapping, semi-transparent circles in various shades of blue, creating a layered, abstract effect.
